

INSTITUTIONALLY ACCREDITED COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY COURSES

Transfer Credits from Institutionally Accredited Colleges and Universities

The registrar administers the credit evaluation process for transfer purposes. To be accepted, transfer course work must be taken at the college level from an institutionally accredited college or university and must carry a grade of C- or better. Credits earned from colleges and universities accredited by national accreditors recognized by the US Department of Education may be accepted on a case-by-case basis. Credits will be transferred (after conversion to semester credits when necessary) for all approved course work and will be included in the cumulative earned credit hours and cumulative grade point average at St. Catherine University. Courses may be transferred to meet elective requirements or, as approved to meet prerequisite, core course or major requirements by the Office of the Registrar.

Students may also earn credits through the University's Credit for Prior and Alternative Learning (CPAL) program for experiences not previously documented on a college/university transcript.

Post Secondary Enrollment Option / Colleges in the Schools

Institutionally accredited college and university transfer work may be earned after graduation from high school or while still enrolled in high school via one of two programs (or similar programs in other states):

PSEO (Post Secondary Enrollment Option)

High school students eligible for this program register for and attend courses at an institutionally accredited college or university. PSEO credits and grades are documented on the college transcript and submitted to St. Catherine University for transfer review.

CIS (Colleges in the Schools)

High school students eligible for this program attend courses at their high school that are taught in partnership with a institutionally accredited college or university. CIS credits and grades are documented on the college transcript and submitted to St. Catherine University for transfer review.
